Pacifico Palumbo

is a Passionate gardener and a well-known Neon artist and painter.

A love for gardening and fond childhood memories of Jean Cocto's 1947 movie "Beauty and the Beast" are the inspiration and catalyst for his creation of Garden Hands.

He believes: "A garden should be a place of beauty and enchantment. Your garden is the one place where your imagination should be allowed the freedom to create a special environment. It is a place where you can relax, take a break from daily routines and be refreshed."

His line of functional garden hand sculptures will add that "certain something" which transforms an ordinary garden into a special garden, one that separates yours from all the rest.
